International Human Rights Day was observed by "Banglar Manabadhikar Suraksha Mancha" (Masum) by organizing a 'Human Rights Fair' in front of Academy of Fine Arts, Kolkata on December 10 2009 with other HR fraternity all over the world.

The day is being observed to honor the United Nations General Assembly's adoption and proclamation of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR) on 10 December 1948.

Presence of various Civil Society Organizations, NGOs as well as sharing of experiences by several intellectuals including Justice Mr. Malay Sengupta; former chief justice of Sikim High Court, made the occasion more specific on the rights of the people. Though this year the theme of this fair was BSF atrocities along the Indo-Bangladesh bordering districts of West Bengal but Child Rights, Rights of Women and other rights also were discussed by the participants with all seriousness. Number of victims of torture; perpetrated by state, made testimonies before the audience. Cultural activities by the participants; recitation and singing made the program colorful.
